SCOUTING

THE SHOPS with Sally

- You can never tell about relatives. Take our Aunt Harriet for instance. She came up to the door, a mouse-like little creature, and announced that she was going to visit us for a month.
- "I suppose you're related to Sally's Uncle Hezekiah," said John darkly.
- "Oh, yes," she brightened up. "Cousin Matilda's great-grandmother married..."
- And there you were! But with the fog creeping in cold and dank there was nothing to do but open the door.
- John morosely reached for his hat and coat, muttering that he was going to the Hilltop Lodge, fog or no fog. A good stiff drink was what he needed, he said, and some cheerful music to make him forget his troubles, and he knew where to find them.
- Meanwhile Sam, after assuring himself that Aunt Harriet's battered suitcase held little promise of presents, departed for the Daly City theatre. Tarzan has finally found a son, it seems, and all the world is interested.
- Sue Ann stood around in the parlor with the sort of expression on her face that we knew was going to lead to a sudden disastrous remark. So we quickly overwhelmed her with a dime to buy some of the little white cookies she loves so dearly at the Geneva Bakery. They're good for her, too.
- This left us and Aunt Harriet face to face for the dreaded "cozy little chat," as she termed it. And sure enough, the very first item that came up was a request to have a check cashed.
- The bank had collapsed yesterday with all our savings, we hastily explained, the house had been robbed last night, and the WPA jobs were all filled up. A muffled chortle in the hall told us that John had heard and would pass the good word along, but it was too late to retreat.
- The first calamity arose that afternoon as we were all sitting in the living room, explaining how the lovely tone Aunt Harriet had noticed in the radio we had

For the first time a real African chant done from an orchestrated score has "crashed" the movies. Chanted by two hundred and fifty men appearing as savage Zambezi warriors the weird rhythm was used in a ceremonial torture scene for "Tarzan Finds a Son!" now playing at the Daly City theatre, with Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan.

African chants previously had to be either recorded in Africa or "faked" from chants of the American negro. But thanks to a Swahili warrior who visited this country eight years ago, music now has its first authentically written score of an African chant.

The Swahili is Riano, who appeared in "Trader Horn." While he was in Hollywood, Dr. William Axt, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer composer, saw in him just the person

Maureen O'Sullivan
and Johnny Weissmuller in
"Tarzan Finds a Son!"

to help fulfill his ambition of scoring a native chant.

For hours the musicians made notes while the warrior chanted. Then the long, difficult task of putting these notes into sheet music form began. Six weeks later the work was finished—but so was "Trader Horn." So Dr. Axt filed away the music, waiting for an opportune moment to bring it forth.

When the musical score was arranged for "Tarzan Finds a Son!" the studio saw in the ceremonial torture dance an ideal spot for the Swahili chant. Richard Thorpe directed the picture, in which a new character is introduced in "Tarzan, Jr.," played by little John Sheffield. Wild animal and other jungle thrills abound in the production.

Companion feature on the new bill is "The Jones Family in Hollywood" starring Jed Prouty and Spring Byington.

Crochet Berets

Berets are high fashion for fall. Paris milliners say so and in the new hat collections you see them worked of velvet, ribbon and other materials. However, there are none prettier and none so practical as the beret that is hand-crocheted. Why not make your own? Why not make two berets? Crochet them of mercerized cotton so that they will tub perfectly. It's a perfect joy to work with the new mercerized crocheted cottons for they come in adorable colors and they have the loveliest luster. A bit of grosgrain ribbon makes an effective trim, giving the beret "class" and distinction.

(Makes 15 small cakes)
1/2 cup water
1 1/4 cups sugar
2 eggs (separated)

2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cold water
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cream the butter, and gradually add about half of the sugar. Beat the egg yolks until very light, add remaining sugar, and beat well. Combine with the first mixture. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, and add to the batter alternately with the water. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold into the batter. Add vanilla. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 25 minutes. Cool and frost with boiled icing sprinkled generously with coconut.

In a double boiler place the mustard, sugar, salt and milk. Blend in eggs and vinegar, and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from flame, and add remaining ingredients. Store in refrigerator until using.

Savory Sandwich Filling.
1 pound American cheese
1/4 pound dried beef
1 cup condensed tomato soup
Run cheese and beef through food chopper, then moisten with the tomato soup. You will find that this filling will keep indefinitely if stored in the refrigerator.

A California scientist has invented a sphere which will reflect light 10 miles distant, intended for use by airplanes forced down at sea.

Buck Jones is in earnest conversation with his famous horse, Silver, over plans for defeating the movie comedians in the big Christmas Funds baseball game at Seals stadium, September 17. Silver seems to be saying "Well, Ol' Pal, just get me on those bases and I'll show you how to run 'em." It's a novel way to get around. Maybe the Seals should try it sometime.

Tropical Isle
Smith Island is only a mile off the coast of North Carolina but resembles a tropical island despite its northerly location. Scientists say a sharp swing of the Gulf stream toward the coast at that point is the reason for the freakish vegetation.

Fried Gift
One of the 40,000 ration tins of chocolate given by Queen Victoria to her troops in Africa during the Boer war at Christmas, 1899, is the treasured possession of F. Reed, 62-year-old unemployed printer of Hastings, England.

Boston Tea Party
In Creech Lane, London, visitors may see the old firm of tea merchants whose tea was dumped into the harbor at the "Boston tea party" in 1773. The firm now sells many products from the United States.

Vacant Prison
In the 25 years since it was built the gaol building at Port Moresby, Papua, reserved for white prisoners, has had only two occupants—the last more than 10 years ago.

Raffle Prize
Rev. John McGee was at first pleased, then puzzled, at winning a raffle prize in Penetanguishene, Canada. The prize was a coupon for a free permanent wave.

Campus Favorite

Here is an outfit for play and general utilitarian wear, the urge for which every up-and-coming college girl feels stirring within. The well-tailored skirt and trim, neat shirt is made of sanforized-shrunk cotton gabardine. It is possible to work out endless color schemes since the new gabardines come in an array of fashionable shades. Gay kerchief squares worn over the head are as popular as ever, especially those in polka dot prints such as worn by the outdoor maiden pictured.

Cottons Take on Importance In 'Back-to-School' Wardrobe

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PLANNING a back-to-school wardrobe for young 1939 sophisticates? Here's news of smart cottons, for cottons are gaining in style prestige. They are the more persuasive in that they are such grand and glorious washable successes, added to which they are durable as well as smart.

True aristocrats among the newer fabrics are the fine shantung cottons and the highly mercerized poplins, both of which actually seem to improve with repeated launderings, for the iron brings out the native luster of the cotton.

Fall prints are more subdued. The backgrounds are darker. No wise mother chooses any print these days that is less than perfectly washable, completely color-fast and sanforized shrunk.

For dress-up, little girls will wear stunning cloque piques, fine linens, washable spun rayons and new crashes that resemble linens but are actually serviceable cotton.

Another outstanding favorite is washable gabardine for school and for all autumn activities. Blouses, shorts, skirts, culottes, in fact every conceivable type of garment for youthful wearers of both sexes who lead a strenuous outdoor life are showing in cotton gabardines that are processed so they cannot shrink out of fit.

Destined to be a schoolgirl favorite is the cunning dress pictured to the left at the top in the group.

As much like mother's bolero jacket outfit as possible is this modish frock designed so cleverly for little daughter with whom it is most certain to prove first choice to wear "first day of school." Made of fine quality shantung broadcloth guaranteed pre-shrunk of course, this model is most attractive. The bolero comes off and leaves a smart little short-sleeved frock. Worn with a sew fall felt, the outfit makes a chic junior ensemble to snuggle under a good warm coat when cool weather sets in.

An ideal tubster is the cunning dress worn by the youngster seated in the foreground. It is made of a modern safe-for-washing print, the excellent shantung cotton print that mothers know and approve for back-to-school wardrobes. Note the dainty hand-fagotting in the collar and please observe that a generous shirring gives plenty of front and back fullness. The pockets are clever and new.

The smiling young bicyclist on the right wears a very intriguing frock styled of a striped cotton print that is almost as sturdy a weave as could be found in any collection of materials, added to which is its attractiveness. The skirt is pleated and a gross mesh of the material

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Boil a little vinegar in the skillet after having fried fish. It will make cleaning easier.

Put a piece of wax paper under the trays in the refrigerator and they will come out easier.

Green bananas will ripen quickly if they are placed in a paper bag and stored in a dark place.

In making fancy sandwiches cut a piece out of top slice of bread with thimble. In opening insert slice of olive.

After using the hot-water bottle let it drain, blow it full of air and put in the stopper. This will prevent it from sticking.

To Show Your Watch

Gloves, designed so that the face of your wrist watch can be seen at a glance, are one of the newest presentations of a famous London designer.

A Cool Color

The teen-age who possess almost an uncanny style sense are having great fun ensembling gabardine outfits that make color their theme. A marine blue gabardine skirt, a yellow blouse, a magenta kid belt, a yellow jacket, a bright headkerchief square that has peasant figurines dancing around the wide border goes to the color limit and yet how effective it is and best of all dependably washable.

In choosing the new bright cottons we can't urge mothers too strongly to stop, look and be cautious before they buy. Look at the label whether it be an all-ready-to-wear garment you are selecting for Junior or little sister or a washable fabric by the yard. Look for service guarantees of non-shrinkage and no-fade on the fabrics.

War Library

The Hoover Library on War, Revolution and Peace, at Stanford university, contains 5,000,000 items bearing on the World war and its aftermath.

Mad-Money Slips Style's New Whim

Mad-money slips are lingerie's latest whimsy. They're tailored versions of crepe with a fabric envelope sewn inside the brassiere top. It's flap fastens with a snap so money tucked inside will stay there.

Next news in lingerie is wool underwear for "orchid women" this fall. London Designer Lydia Moss showed in New York chemise-slips of pink nun's veiling bound with satin ribbon, and a shirt and bloomer combination of thin plaid wool to wear under tweeds.

House Trailers

Approximately 800,000 house trailers are in use in the United States

For a Higher Effect

Interior decorators have now decided that the use of a deep color on ceilings raises them, instead of lowers, as has been usually thought. A new trick is to carry the side wall paper up onto the ceiling about 10 inches, instead of dropping the ceiling color down on the sides. This creates an optical illusion of greater height.

Flower Vases

Flower vases should always be washed thoroughly with soap and hot water when withered blossoms are being discarded, lest bacteria which decay the stems of flowers survive in the vase and shorten the life of the fresh blooms which are put into it.

THE RECORD SNAPSHOTS

Radio sets can now receive television sound by wireless, due to new Philco inventions. Above, the television picture shows on the small picture receiver while the sound emanates from the standard radio in the background, though there are no connections between the two.

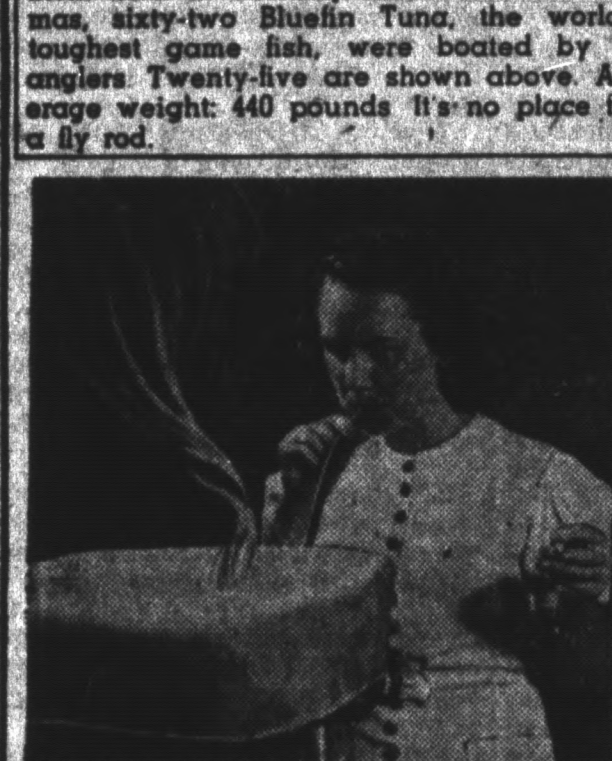

Keeping Fit — Helen Parrish, movie starlet, clears the net easily after a strenuous game of tennis.

A Lot of Salad in the Bow — During the second day of the record-breaking tuna tournament held at Cat Bay Island in the Bahamas, sixty-two Bluefin Tuna, the world's toughest game fish, were boated by 28 anglers. Twenty-five are shown above. Average weight: 440 pounds. It's no place for a fly rod.

A Couple of Kinkajous — These amiable Kinkajous, relations of the Raccoon family, are having a feast on a banana. They are the prize possession of a Hungarian farmer.

Quarter Million Holes to Every Inch of Cushion — It's porous! New cushioning material made of pure latex by The B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, has 250,000 openings to the cubic inch permitting easy circulation of air and even cigarette smoke through mattresses, bus, automobile and furniture seats. Said to be cooler and lighter than any similar material so far produced.

World-famous Chefs Entertained — Chef Karel Zima of the Czechoslovakian Pavilion and Chef Jan Kozerski of the Polish Pavilion sample the good old American "red hot" during the International Buffet luncheon held recently at the Swift Exhibit at the New York World's Fair in honor of the chefs of foreign pavilions.

Industrial Output

From 1910 to 1930, the output for each industrial worker increased 30 per cent, while on the farm the increase was 41 per cent. In the years 1927 and 1938, agricultural production was 5 per cent greater than in 1929, while industrial production was 15 per cent below that of the same year.

The department of labor was created in 1913. There are 14 species of rattlesnakes in North America.

bought from Byrne's radio store was really very inexpensive, and was included with all of Byrne's radios. Anyway, this one had been a gift from the next-door neighbor ---

● At which moment we were interrupted by the man from the Beeson cleaners, holding our white fur evening wrap up in plain view. And after being cleaned, it looked like a million dollars. There was a moment of embarrassed silence, while Aunt Harriet stared at the fur; then Sam took matters into his own hands.

● "Got those shooting jackrabbits," he said. "Good old jackrabbits!"

● Then there was the matter of dinner. We had completely forgotten it, but we had invited our club president, Mrs. Ziddal, so we couldn't have the meal look too impoverished. Besides, we had bought a lovely roasting chicken from Milo's, which we couldn't let spoil.

● We tried to keep things simple, but still, all in all, everything looked pretty nice when we sat down to dinner. There were fruit cocktails, made with some of Milo's pineapple juice (on special this week), and a lovely crisp salad, (Milo's vegetables. The avocado was grand.) Mrs. Ziddal looked properly impressed.

● Aunt Harriet cast an admiring look around. "My, my!" she said. John frowned, there was an embarrassed silence, we tried to think of some plausible explanation. But we might as well have spared ourselves the trouble, because like a stroke of lightning, Sue Ann piped up.

● "Yes," she said looking complacently about the table. "The neighbors are pretty good to bring in food, aren't they, mummy?"

● "And most of the dishes are free," explained Sam. "They come in soap from Westlake Market. And the bananas only cost 15c a dozen at Westlake."

● The rest of that dinner will always remain a blur—Mrs. Ziddal trying to be bright and chatty and all the time looking as if she had just seen a snake in her path. "Won't you have some butter?" she would ask sweetly, and not all the lovely, fresh, first-quality butter that we had been so proud to buy from Robertson's egg store would help.

● As for conversation, it was almost at a standstill. "Have you seen the knock-downs that a couple of the local dealers are making in their 1939 cars?" Mrs. Ziddal would inquire in a sprightly tone of voice. Then she would remember that the neighbors were sending food, and would hurriedly help herself to the grand assortment of cold meats Farmers Meat had sliced so carefully for us. It was perfectly lovely meat, too.

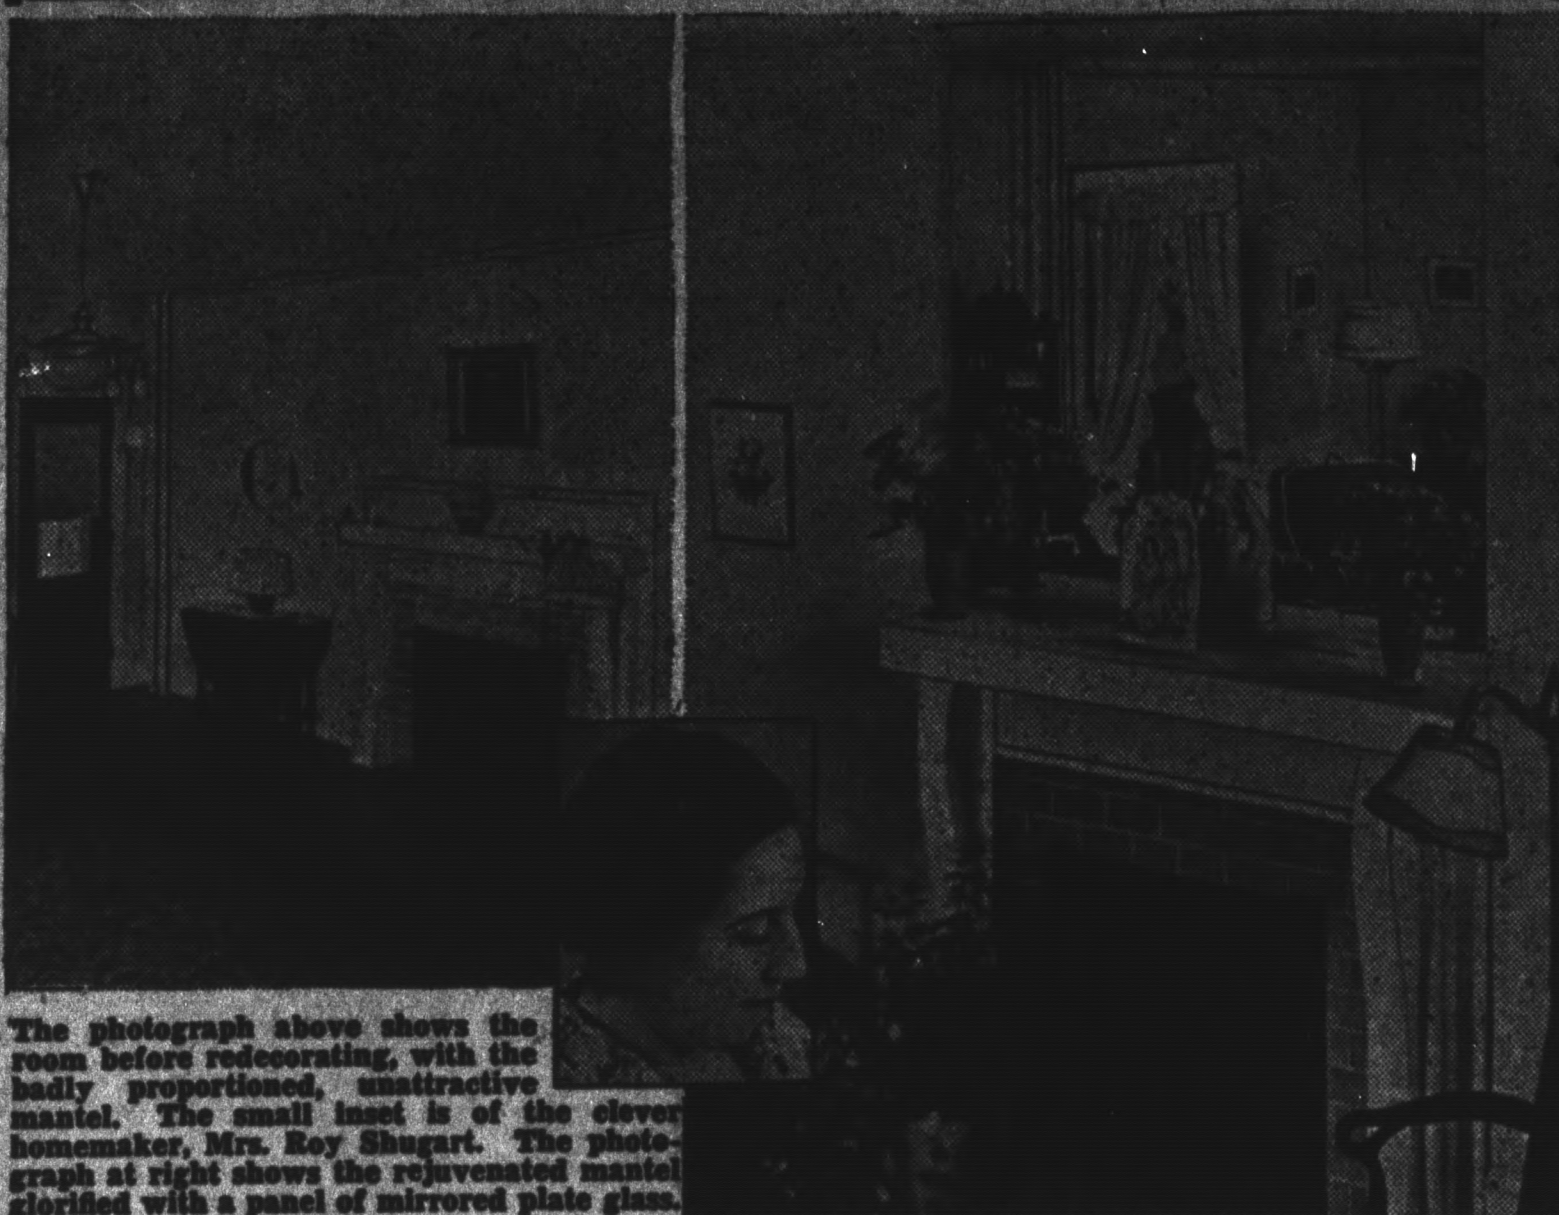

● Or she would make some quite innocent remark about how good the salad dressing was, and Sue Ann or Sam would carefully explain for Aunt Harriet's benefit that it cost only 25c a quart at the Daly City Cut Rate Market. Then John and Sally would listen helplessly as the children elaborated how the paper napkins had cost only 4c for 80; that grapefruit was 25c for a whole dozen; or that dill pickles were 2 for 5c, at the Cut Rate.

● By the time we came to dessert, no one was eating anything. We had some fresh assorted black and white figs from Lucca Ravoli that were simply delicious, but we're afraid no one noticed. When we had bought a leg of lamb there (only 27c a pound) we had also picked up some Royal pudding (4c a box), but even that failed to alleviate the situation.

● Mrs. Ziddal left shortly afterward. "By the way, I have an extra quart of good rich milk from the Mission Creamery," she said at the door. "You folks might just as well have it. And I also have part of a nice fresh picnic ham from the Vista Grande Meat market I'll send over."

● Not caring much what happened after that, we turned back to Aunt Harriet. With haggard expressions on our faces, we heard

Budget of $100 Rejuvenates Home

READING, Pa. (Special)—The decorative results that can be accomplished by imagination coupled with ingenuity and a wise investment in plate glass mirrors were interestingly illustrated here by a homemaker with but $100 to spend on three rooms.

Mrs. Roy Shugart, of Wyomissing, a suburb of Reading, was the homemaker who glorified three rooms on a decorating budget of $100, accumulated by careful housekeeping, economy and giving up a few recreational pleasures. But the results in a rejuvenated home more than justified the sacrifices to save the necessary funds.

Fireplace Redeemed

Faced with the problem of a badly proportioned fireplace, and eager to achieve something out of the ordinary in the way of decoration, Mrs. Shugart decided on mirrors as offering the most in charm at the least expense. She first attacked the fireplace.

The mantel was high and narrow. Therefore, if it was to become an asset instead of a liability the proportions must be changed. An eight inch board across the top was removed and a panel of mirrored plate glass reaching to the ceiling was installed at a cost of $42.07. Mrs.

Shugart felt justified in spending this amount on the mantel since the mirror gave gaiety and charm to the entire room and made the formerly ugly fireplace a focal point of interest by reflecting other furniture groupings and two excellently proportioned windows at the opposite end of the room.

Next a little-used and antiquated piano was removed and in its place were put a gateleg table previously in another part of the room, a lounge chair and a maple arm chair brought down from a bedroom. In order to catch the vistas from two more windows opposite this grouping, Mrs. Shugart spent $9.85 on another mirror.

Slip Covers for $15

The divan and two upholstered chairs were treated to new slip covers at a cost of $12.00 for materials, the work being done at home. Other expenditures in the living room were for pictures, ornaments, lampshades, a lamp, rug, a radiator cover and an end table, amounting to $14.48.

Furnished in simple maple, which had been a wedding gift, the dining room's particular problem was a pair of necessary but unattractive chests. Again a mirror seemed indicated and for $5.35 the amateur decorator secured a good mirror in a simple frame. Her husband removed the green paint from the old chest and rubbed it down with oil. Above the chest directly opposite, Mrs. Shugart hung a wall shelf bought for $1.25 and stained at home, using bright bits of pottery and vases of field flowers to brighten it. Thus two drab corners were delightfully redeemed at a cost of $7.55.

Mirror in Nursery

The nursery received a "face lifting" with a total investment of $13.68. Paint and gay but inexpensive chintz revived the nondescript furniture and the man of the house contributed a home-made but attractive bookcase for $1.90. A mirror removed from a chest and framed for $1.75 served to emphasize a charming view of a park and to remind an untidy little daughter of her appearance. Chintz and bedspread materials costs $4.97 and a chest and a child's chair required another $5.04.

The decoration budget added up to $99.63 but, says the woman who accomplished this miracle of room transformation, the results in uplifting the spirits of the family are out of all proportion to the amount she spent.

Talkative Conductor

There is a bus-conductor in the Jewish city of Tel Aviv, Palestine, who takes fares in 10 languages. He speaks English, Hebrew, German, Yiddish, Polish, Russian, a smattering of French, Spanish and Arabic, and can answer to Czech.

Polish Sports

You can go to a country house in Poland, ride, shoot and live on its estate as if you owned thousands of its acres, and only be asked to pay as a guest the equivalent asked by a small boarding house in an average seaside resort.

Harvey Lake Dam

The Harvey lake dam in the Connecticut river basin in Vermont is a project which has been proposed for flood control. The project has been investigated by the United States army but no further action has been taken.

her concluding remarks.

● "Yes," she explained, "I don't want to be a burden, so I've decided to leave. And you folks mustn't worry about me. I just found a fifty dollar bill in my purse that I had forgotten all about. Besides, my usual interest check will come tomorrow—not much, only a couple of thousand, but I'll be all right."

● P. S. Aspirin are only 19c for a hundred at Edwards this week. Good thing! Edwards does a grand job at prescriptions, too.

Smart Wool With Gold Accent Is Early Fall Style Formula

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF THERE is one theme more than another about which fashion interest centers this fall, that theme is the outstanding importance of fine, choice fabric. In assembling the autumn wardrobe the thought to keep uppermost in mind is that for the most part the style structure for the coming months is being built around the idea of handsome material made up with a studied simplicity that achieves classic lines which lead to well-balanced silhouettes bespeaking a new dignity in the mode.

The new wool weaves are adding a particularly exciting chapter to the current story of fall elegance. In laying the foundation for the early fall wardrobe the idea of handsome wool styled to a nicety with emphasis on dramatic simplicity, is making widespread appeal.

What to offset the amazing simplicity of the dress or suit of wool wool. The answer is gold jewelry accents. Which is one of the startling items of news in the new season's trends. There is a "gold rush" on in fashion's realm. Black with gold is especially a message that is being flashed throughout the style centers of the world.

Black wool jersey, a particularly smart indication for early fall, is used for the fashion-right semi-tailored dress centered to right above in the illustration. Note, with the bracelet-length sleeves the unusually wide gold bracelet. This matter of the wider bracelet is in accordance with fashion's latest decree.

To further dramatize this modish daytime frock of black wool jersey there are gold clips that highlight the lapel. Flattering too, are the circle earrings.

To the lower right in the picture, a princess model of billiard green flannel, beautifully fitted at the waist, breaks into pleats below the hips. The high round neck practically demands a necklace and a suitable one as here shown is of gold links with gold knots. The wide link gold bracelet looks well with the necklace and a cunning gold clip climaxes this jewelry ensemble. The plaid hat crowns the entire with glory.

Gold jewelry as a smart accent to colorful tweeds has also become a hobby with fashion. To the left in the picture see a deep bright green tweed suit with a new collar treatment and stitched detail down the front of the jacket. The skirt is widely gored. Take particular notice of the gold and green tourmaline daisy pin with a diamond center worn on the jacket. The bracelets are of the new large gold link type. Gold stitched suede describes the hat.

A few notes in general in regard to the new wool weaves follow. The trend to smoother versions of the velvety duvetyn order is apparent. There are also many ribboned woolens. While black woolens are having a widespread initial call, there is also a big movement going on among richly colorful tweeds and other wool weaves gorgeously toned in new shades of blue green and flower reds with rust tones greatly in favor for sports and travel wear.

Monte Carlo
"The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" was an Englishman, Charles Wells. After a somewhat shady career in England, he went to Monte Carlo and in July, 1891, entered the casino with 4,000 pounds, obtained under false pretense. On his first day he won a quarter of a million francs. He immediately became a popular character in the municipality, but in 1892 after a return to England was arrested and tried for obtaining money by fraud and sentenced to eight years' penal servitude. After his release he changed his name to Davenport, but continued his swindling operations, served two more prison terms and finally died in 1922.

Dust Important
Some of the dust particles in the air are very important: as they form nuclei on which water vapor condenses when air is cooled sufficiently and without which there could be no clouds or rain.

Flare for Suede Knows No Bounds

It's going to prove a record season for suede. Paris cables say "suede" with emphasis, citing accessory ensembles of hat, bag, belt and gloves done in richly colorful suede. Some suede enthusiasts are dressing in suede from head to foot. The new suede processing is so amazing, the results are a lightness and softness that yields perfectly to fabric treatments. In consequence high-fashion women are taking to wearing stunning dresses of suede or perhaps a suede topper completes a tweed suit. It's a complete conquest that suede has made in the fashionable world.
